

1/ Ventilation Shaft

By adding ventilation shafts inside or beside the building, it can achieve better ventilation for the interior space. By putting it beside stairs or structure element, it might utilize the space with more efficiency.

2/ Cross Ventilation

The current situation is that the windows are entirely closed. The whole building's ventilation relies on the A.C. system, which might cause unnecessary energy consumption.